BALL HANDLING

The objective of ball handling drills is to help you become a master of the ball. Your goal is to reach a point where you can do these drills with your eyes closed. This goal is achievable with practice. Many of the world's best players do this, your aim is to work the ball as though it is part of your body.

The following drills will help you develop balance, agility, flexibility and quick reflexes, they will also allow you to get a better feel for the ball. Remember to keep your head up and back straight (like you are sitting in a chair) when you do these drills. These drills will also help strengthen legs and lower back.

Ball Handling and Control Program

- 1. Figure 8s 3,2 & 1 bounce spend 1-2 minutes doing all dribbles going through the front, then do the same through the back. Work on timing and reducing upper body movement.
- 2 Figure 8s No bounce spend 1-2 mins moving the ball round and through your legs in a figure 8 motion. Again do both through the front and back.
- Knee Wraps; Head Wraps; and Waist Wraps move the ball around each of these body parts in one direction doing about 30 seconds for each - then do the same in the other direction.
- 4. Full body Wraps spend 1 minute going around your head then waist, then knees, then waist, then head etc... with the ball in one direction then for another minute in the other direction.
- 5. Straddle Flip Start with your arms and hands behind you holding the ball between your legs (in a sitting position). Flip the ball slightly and move the hands to the front, keep changing from front to back for 30 seconds 1 minute.
- 6. Blurr Start with one hand at the front and one at the back holding the ball between your legs (in a sitting position). Flip the ball slightly and swap hands so that the hand at the front is now at the back etc... keep swapping hands for 30 seconds to 1 minute.
- 7. Single Leg, Double Leg Start with both feet together, like with knee wraps go around both legs once, then step forward with one leg and put the ball around that leg, put your legs back together and go around both legs again, then step with the other leg and go around it, continue to do this for 1 minute clockwise and then 1 minute anti-clockwise. Be sure to keep the ball going in the same direction as you go around each leg.
