

Cheyenne Names

Giving a child an Indian name is an important part of Cheyenne culture. Traditionally, a child is named for a relative. Sometimes other names are given to individuals later in life, such as when someone returns home from military service. A few non-Cheyennes are given names by Cheyennes. If you are not a Cheyenne but wish to take a Cheyenne name for yourself or someone else in your family, be aware that you will not be following traditional Cheyenne naming procedure.
