2009 BROBDINGNAG BARBARIANS

MOOD STATEMENT

Though apt, Vlad would not be happy with the metaphor: "The Owner [Ed.Note: One always treats Vlad's title as a proper noun] has been almost civil—did last season satiate the Python?" Fortunately for the writer who penned that line Vlad doesn't read the Brobdingnag Minstrel. If he did, the paper would be short one beat writer.

While Vlad may indeed be as cold blooded as the great snake he may also be savoring the team's winning ways in 2008, though "satiated" is not how most folks would describe him. "I'll rest when I have I more than the Sensei" he has oft been heard saying. Nor would Vlad take kindly to know his staff treated 2009 with the less urgency—and fear—than they did in 2008.

No matter how diligently they work, no matter how many smiles the dice gods send their way, the reality is this is a mediocre team and their record will likely reflect it. Fortunately, so is the Ruth Div as a whole.

Most last season's hired guns are gone, replaced with younger blood [Vlad will like that part.] But it is still taking form. The wins will generally come when the offence beats teams into submission and/or when Peavy or Shields are pitching. The losses will usually come when the bullpen does what it does best, self immolate.

Make hay while the sun shines. While the cat's away the mice will play. Don't look a smiling Vlad in the eyes. ffensively this team will be easier to manage than last season. The position starters are pretty good and will tend to stay deep into the games. The bench as enough usage, they just aren't very good. When it is time to make a move, it will generally be quite obvious, e.g. Cory Patterson's OF-3 replacing an OF-1 or 2 to protect a lead.

GENERAL PHILOSOPHY

We are missing many of the stolen base threats we had last season as well. Patterson, Werth, and Young are the only effective SBAs we have. A-Rod has 21 attempts but with the big mashers hitting behind him he will not run very often.

The pitching staff will require more care—and a bio-hazard suit. The relief staff is woefully lacking in good innings. The two-headed closer would be a 7th inning guy on many teams; the set-up guys look more like mid/long relievers, and the long relievers look decent only by comparison to most the starters. The "good" relief must be used with cunning & surgical skill and only in games we realistically can win. More detail inside.

Please read these instructions for intent and keep to usage limits as best you can. Within that please apply good BB judgment as appropriate. Enjoy the games. This is a team likely to finish in the middle of the pack almost regardless of how it is managed.

- I will play the boards again
- I expect to send out monthly instructions
- I expect to make a waiver wire move
- Have fun

H&R, STRAIGHT STEAL, SACS, PH, DEF

H&R has priority: Only Mauer at bat, 9+ SBA on 1st. Max 1SBA per runner per series.

Stealing: Max once per series with Patterson, Werth, or Rodriguez. 8th+ if tie/winning run on 1st base.

Sacrifice: Only in blatantly obvious situations vs high grade pitchers. Only with Lopez & bench guys.

PH: Lopez is the obvious weak bat and can be PH for 8th+ if the PHer gives me noticeably better odds. Also, it won't happen often but sometimes the situation will scream out for a PH because of the pitching match-up

Def: Any lead mid-7th+ bring in best defense the bench allows without using Davis, Iannetta, Thome

Def: I play the INF deep unless the tie/win run is on 3rd, 7th+, and no inning ending DP is available.

Def: I tend to: (1) hold all runners on 1st (2) pitch from the stretch (3) throw for lead runners <30 chances to score, otherwise throw for the one most likely to make the out (4) take extra base on >=28.

All these are tendencies. Please override if the game/score/matchups clearly say otherwise.

Pitching Instructions

The Relievers: Before looking at removing starters you need to see what's in the bull pen. The pen is very limited and I need to save what semi-decent relief there is for games I can win.

Gorzelany will be a starter in April and then be the long reliever the rest of the season. He should always be the first guy out of the pen if he's available and I lead by 5+ or trail by 3+. He is also the only guy I want to use if the starter is forced out in the first 5 innings with any score.

Cotts, Eyre, Hansen: The plan is these are 100 innings to cover the 6th/7th. If they come in and then I later go down 4+, pull and use Gorzelany. If I get farther ahead they can stay longer.

Miller, Hoffman, Linebrink: 7th & 8th primarily, can pitch 9th at times. They only pitch if the score is +/-3 or if I'm up 4 with 2 runners on. If it later gets out of this range pull them and use the guys above.

Samardja & Masterson: Only used in save situation in the 9th (and once per series can be used for a 4 out save). If it is no longer a save situation, pull them and use the appropriate guys above.

Relieving the Starters:

Innings 1-5: Only if required by pounding, injury, death, of Congressional subpoena.

Starting in the 6th: Only relieve the starter if all apply:

- -- The score is +4 to -2 (from my point of view) and runner on -- The relievers eligible to pitch based on the above are better
- -- The relievers eligible to pitch based on the above are bette than the starter.
- --Rules require it

Once the relief staff is put in play try to get the L/R shifts and +5 bonuses as you can to keep rallies to a low roar. The bull pen is not pretty this year.

NOTE: Look for a pitcher to be added off the WW and appropriate changes to the relief usage.
